

ABSTRACT

A print medium that can serve as an electrostatic sticker is provided. A user generates any desired image including text and/or graphics using the software packages available to host computer systems. The image is then printed on the print medium using 5 a printer connected to the host computer system, preferably an inkjet printer. Consequently, any user with a printer and host computer can easily and without great expense design and print a custom electrostatic sticker.

T0290"06740